Commonwealth of Australia restricts the information that can be exempted from disclosure under law. These legislative exemptions can include specific types of employment, voluntary work, or membership of a profession. Therefore, the information provided may not include all of the person's convictions or findings of guilt by a court. Generally, the person is not required by law to disclose these exemptions unless the type of employment, position, licence or professional membership is exempt under the relevant laws. The term "no disclosable court outcomes" should be interpreted as meaning no police record.

This check has been conducted on the basis of the name and date of birth details supplied by the person who checked them to ensure the accuracy of the check, it cannot be guaranteed that the information is current at the date of issue of the certificate and of the person's disclosable court outcomes beyond that date.
